DETAILED ACTION

Claims Pending

Claims 1-3 are pending. Claims 1-3 are examined on the merits.

Double Patenting Rejections

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 1 is provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 9 of copending Application No. 11/020,436.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because claim 1 of the instant application are rejected under 35 USC § 102 (b) as being 'anticipated' by claim 9 of copending Application No. 11/020,436.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections –35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 USC § 102 (b) as being anticipated by Hersh (US 5,906,811).

Hersh teaches intra-oral sprays (comprising a solvent) include proanthocyanidins (20 mgs per day) from pine bark (extract) or grape seeds (col 19, lines 1-5).

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 USC § 102 (b) as being anticipated by Ganan-Calvo (US 6,248,378).

Ganan-Calvo teaches food product including chewing gums. Ganan-Calvo also teaches herbal extracts such as pine bark extract may be added to foods (col 25, lines 46-60).

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 USC § 102 (b) as being anticipated by Bruijn et al (US 2003/0086986).

Bruijn et al teach natural plant compounds, such as pine bark extract, show antimicrobial activity when used for topical applications in oral care products (see Abstract).

Applicant is requested to note that it is regarded that "intended use" of a composition or product will not further limit claims drawn to a composition or product. See, e.g., Ex Parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987) and In Re Hack 114, USPQ 161. A recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

Therefore, the reference is deemed to anticipate the instant claim above.

Claim Rejections –35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hersh (US 5,906,811).

Hersh teaches intra-oral sprays (comprising a solvent) include proanthocyanidins (20 mgs per day) from pine bark (extract) or grape seeds (col 19, lines 1-5).

Art Unit: 1655

Hersh does not teach the concentration of the pine bark extract is at least 0.2 g/L.

It would have been prima facie obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the concentration of at least 0.2 g/L for the pine bark extract since regarding the amount of the component in the composition, the result-effective adjustment in conventional working parameters is deemed merely a matter of judicious selection and routine optimization which is well within the purview of the skilled artisan, which depends on oral cavity conditions. Since the composition yielded beneficial results in oral care products, one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to make the modifications.

From the teachings of the references, it is apparent that one of the ordinary skills in the art would have had a reasonable expectation of success in producing the claimed invention.

Thus, the invention as a whole is prima facie obvious over the references, especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.
